

For Final Clearance

Here is the biggest event in our career—perhaps the biggest event in Bridgeport's clothing history. Our entire stock has been reduced to one uniform price; many dollars below the usual price of the merchandise.

It should be remembered that, because we are manufacturers as well as retailers, our clothes are ALWAYS PRICED A THIRD LOWER than ordinary retailers ask for garments of equal merit. You can figure out for yourself the actual values represented by these FINAL reductions.

$16.50

We are doing this in order to give the men of Bridgeport a demonstration of value-giving that cannot help but leave an indelible impression upon every man that takes advantage of this sale.

Our selling force, alteration department and delivery facilities have all been reinforced to take care of the record-breaking business this sale is sure to bring.

OUR ENTIRE STOCK TO CHOOSE FROM. Many suits are suitable for Fall and Winter wear and a good many "clothes-wise" men are purchasing two or more suits at this ridiculously low figure.

GENERAL BRUSSLOFF "MADE" BY GREAT WAR

Petrograd, Aug. 2.—General Alexis Brussloff, commander of the Russian army which swept through Bukovina, was little known outside of Russia before the present war. In fact, he was not until 1914 that he was given command of an army corps. His work in the war won him promotions. He is almost the only one of the many prominent social figures in the army who has made good.

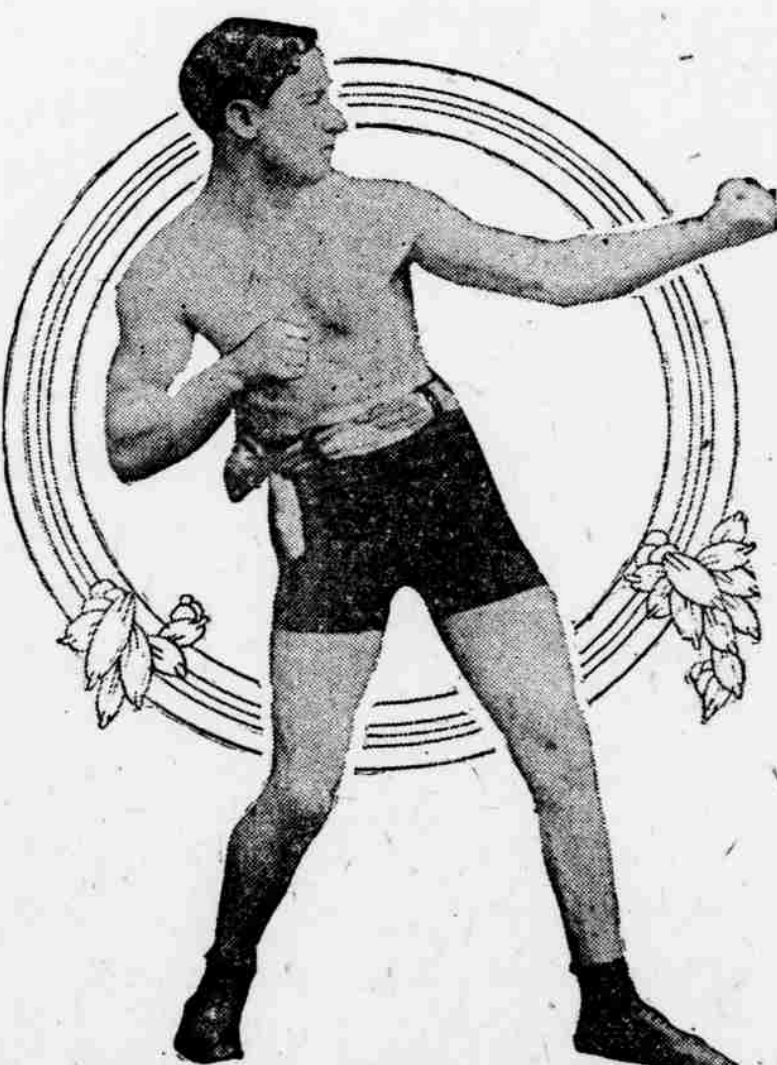

General Brussloff is 68 years old but looks more like 45. He is alert and modern. He has dark, steady, searching eyes and nose with a high, commanding curved bridge, and a square jaw. His hair is close cropped; he wears a long thin gray moustache. It was General Brussloff who commanded an army in the first Carpathian campaign when the Russians were ready to pour down into Hungary but were forced to retreat for lack of ammunition. Unlike many Russian generals, Brussloff had the advantages of an excellent education and began army life in a fashionable cavalry regiment. Ability and influence combined to make his advancement rapid. He held many positions was recognized a favorite at court, distinguished himself as a daring rider, encouraged cavalry officers to go in for polo and cross country steeplechase and was popular in Petrograd society. Then came the war to try out the capacity and characters of men. Brussloff was one of the studious, professional type of officers who came to the front and made good.

The Men Who Put New York On American League Map

At last New York is on the American league map in big letters. It has been a long, hard fight, for the metropolis was admitted into Ban Johnson's select company in 1903, and many years of effort were required to win the allegiance of the fans. Of course, the Yankees had a goodly crowd of rooters right from the first, but in the past, although the attendance was fair, it was never what it should have been considering the vast population the club has to draw from. The Giants were so firmly entrenched in popular favor that the Yanks got only the leftovers. That condition of affairs is now a thing of the past. The Giants have simply got to play ball to hold their own. The sentiment which keeps the interest of the older fans centered in the Giants doesn't have much effect on the younger crop of rooters. And it is the young men who are most frequent visitors to the ball yard.

The men who made New York an American League city in every sense of the term are Colonel Jacob Ruppert and Capt. T. L. Huston, respectively the president and secretary of the club, and its principal owners. When they bought the outfit they set out to build up a winner and to make a noise in the baseball world, and they have succeeded. The Yankees have been in the race from the jump this year, and the fans have turned out to the games as never before. Messrs. Ruppert and Huston may not win a pennant, but even with their great expenditures for players, they will probably finish the year with the balance on the right side of the ledger.

Col. Ruppert, president of the Yankees, will begin his fiftieth year tomorrow, as he was born in New York on August 5, 1867, the son of the late Jacob Ruppert, from whom he inherited a fortune in the brewing industry. Col. Ruppert was formerly active in politics, sitting in Congress from 1899 to 1907, and he has also taken a leading part in militia affairs. Capt. Huston, his associate in the baseball venture, hails from Cincinnati, and during the Spanish war he organized a company of engineers and helped to clean up Havana. After the war he remained in Cuba and made a fortune in engineering and construction work, winning an enviable reputation for business integrity.

Both Ruppert and Huston are ardent baseball fans, and they went in to the game as much from love of the sport as to make money. They are both men accustomed to taking a large view of affairs, penny-pincher has no business in baseball. He may, by good luck, happen to get possession of a club with so much good player material that he is bound to succeed, but as a general rule the only man who can make money in baseball is the one who has money and is willing to spend it in liberal quantities. Ruppert and Huston fulfilled both qualifications. Early in their venture they bought several lemons from the minor league, but they didn't permit these failures to worry them, but went ahead. Since they purchased the Yankees a year ago last winter they have spent nearly $200,000 for players. Last year the club lost $65,000 in running expenses. This year they will probably make about that sum, possibly much more. Messrs. Ruppert and Huston paid $400,000 for the Yankee franchise. In order to realize on their investment they have spent any fortune in getting stars, and they are willing to spend more.
